

Presidential Charity

Iain Rennie Hospice at Home

The Iain Rennie Hospice at Home is a registered charity offering specialist and supportive care and advice for patients with cancer and other life threatening illnesses in their homes. They also aim to help the relatives and those carers close to the patient during the illness and bereavement period. The service is available 365 days a year and offers patients and carers access to on-call specialist advice and nursing visits on a 24 hour on-call basis. The professional care and advice offered by their teams of specialist and support nurses enables those people who choose to stay at home to achieve the best quality of life. The Hospice at Home service is offered to patients and families free of charge and their Fundraising Department works hard to raise the funds needed to keep their nurses on the road. Ken Satterly has chosen this charity, and as a mascot he is using Rennie Bear, who will become a familiar companion on his travels. The charity and the wonderful work that it does can be found on www.irhh.org

Presidential Presentation Celebration Plaque

The December 2009 BIFD cover encapsulated the very essence of the BIFD Journal. Innovative and creative in equal measure. The company IMMORTILE contacted the BIFD Journal with news of their product launch and from the start the editorial team knew that this product should enjoy further coverage, and where better than the front cover of the magazine? Julian Dakowski had discussed this unique concept in advance of the official launch with the BIFD, and then re-contacted with the news that his memorial product was ready for the consumer. As with all things, to see it first hand, rather than a photo is always going to be the best medium, and the product does not disappoint. At the December Board of Directors, BIFD National President Ken Satterly, was presented with the plaque commemorating his current presidential year, by your editor. Launching a new product? Please contact the editor, via email at colin@funeraldirector.com

